Eskimos 'Silver Seven' Battle Tigers Tonight In Their Jungle Lair

With Badly Depleted Banks, But Not Down-Hearted for a Moment, the Eskimos Will Give the Outlanders a Strenuous Session

Feeling that they had received a bad break in officiating and in luck, but not by any means down hearted, the Eskimos boarded the train for Calgary last night determined to put up a stiff fight against the Tigers.

The Eskimos have a tough game on their hands tonight. It would have been a tough game even at best, but with Crosby Morrison and Johnny Sheppard in hospital, and Spunk Sparrow suspended, it is going to be just that much tougher.

Even the most ardent Eskimo supporter can hardly hope for a victory tonight. Should the Eskimos turn in a win, it would be a great triumph, but the odds are very heavy against them. The Eskimos will have to fight their hardest and their best when their backs are to the wall. Their backs will be to the wall tonight, and the Tigers, despite their heavy numerical superiority, will have to use every ounce of weight and stamina to turn in a victory.

Keats and Sparrow Penalized by Tuesday's Game

President Richardson Hands Out Penalties to Eskimo Players as Result of His Observations—Is Still Waiting for Referee's Report, However, on Game at Saskatoon

According to a wire received by Kenny McKenzie from E. L. Richardson, president of the W.C.H.U., on Thursday afternoon, Spunk Sparrow has been suspended from play in the next two games, and a fine of $500.00 has been handed out to Duke Keats for an alleged "attack" on a spectator. Both these penalties are a result of the game here Thursday afternoon between the Eskimos and the Calgary Tigers.

In a dispatch from Calgary which appeared in yesterday morning's Bulletin, the following was included: "The professional hockey leader also says that all rowdies during games in his loop will be eliminated from now on, as he intends to deal severely with offenders. Players who question a referee's decision, as a result of an official, fight on ice, or attack spectators, will not be tolerated."

We're All With Him

In regard to the above, there is a large chorus of "back him" hockey fans all over the prairie who will wish every success in his new department. It is a commendable New Year's resolution and its carrying out will be watched with the greatest of interest. The average fan does not want to see rowdies in hockey. There may be some who want to see a few players knocked out every game, but they fortunately are in the minority. If Mr. Richardson is able to carry out his plan, it will be a great benefit to the game.

It is the general opinion of the hockey fans in this city that the game is being run in a very fair and equitable manner. The fans are all with him.

Saskatoon Crescents Took Close Game From Regina Capitals 1 to 0

Was Comparatively Clean Contest—McChurker and Hainworth Engaged in a Goalkeeping Duel—Regina Fans Turned Out in Thousands

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 3.—Saskatoon Shocks fortified their position at the head of the Western Canada Hockey League here tonight by defeating the Regina Capitals one to nothing. Despite twenty-five well-watched, the contest was witnessed by five thousand fans.

The night's play, Saskatoon deserved to win. They uncovered some tricky combination and a baffling system of defense which the Capitals could not penetrate. The latter, disorganized by injuries received in previous games, played below their usual form and, although they looked as dangerous contenders in the third period, they could not break through.

The Wrong Kind.
If it was the January thaw that Harry K.'s lawyers were getting to get relief, they would find a good deal more popular interest in this part of the continent just now.

The Results Suggest So.
Toronto taxpayers turned down the single tax proposition by a majority that looks like an absolute avalanche. It has been reading what the single tax experiment did to the taxpayers of Edmonton.

Too Much Bread?
It is a curious turn of affairs lately when the President of the United States advises the farmers of that country to grow less wheat. It is still more curious that the farmers feel they cannot afford to neglect the advice. If wheat cannot be produced at a profit in a country of a hundred million people what kind of farm produce can be raised?

Will He Whack Up?
Wonder if Premier Grenfell will agree to share up the automobile and amusement taxes with the cities if he gets the promise of farming, the natural resource for revenue? If the resources for revenue? If the resources for revenue? If the resources for revenue?

A Favored Land.
The California orange crop has been frosted, as usual about this time of year, and the moderating climate that country has. Warm enough that the flappers can flip in the surf and water, but cold enough to keep the expectations of a beautiful citrus crop at the psychological moment and keep prices at the level of a war—scarcity. It is not everywhere that the balmy press agent of the tourist association and the possible producers combine can play both ends against the middle without coming into collision. That orange state sure has a pull with the weather office.

Interference Not Welcomed.
Premier Massey told the British electors that they were bound to make good Mr. Baldwin's protectionist proposals and they proceeded to slam the proposals unmercifully. Passing through Toronto the New Zealand statesman spent a helpful word on behalf of the candidature of "Tommy Church" and the voters of his home town proceeded to swat that favorite son for the first time in his career. Not that the people of Britain or the people of Toronto have anything against Mr. Massey. The moral is that outsiders had better leave the people of a British colony alone to settle their local affairs by their own devices. Britishers have a way of knowing anything that looks like "butting in," don't you?

The Utility Rates.
As a matter of fact it should be noted that the increase in water, light and telephone rates puts these charges back where they were in 1921. The city needs money now as much as it did then, and the taxpayers are in no better position to provide it. At the higher rates these services are not excessively costly, unless comparison is made with cities where the cost of providing them is less favorable. And unless taxation is lightened the most come when the bulk of the city's revenue will have to be collected by these and other extraordinary means. Hence, what the taxpayer pays in surplus to the utilities he will not have to pay when his tax bill is presented. From this standpoint, the increase in rates should be an advantage.

More Than One Pacific Port

The Vancouver Province tells us that the lumber shipping fleet from that port have increased from 100 million feet in the first eleven months of 1923 to 250 million feet in the corresponding period of 1923. Also that wheat shipments have increased from 689 thousand bushels in 1923 to 1,300 thousand bushels in 1923. The port is now shipping 13 million in 1923. As the Pacific West has already shipped over 200 million bushels of wheat this year through other ports it is clear that there is room and opportunity for a vastly greater flow of wheat through Vancouver that has yet occurred.

The trade through any port depends on rail rates, ocean freight and the facilities available. These latter are usually controlled by a harbor commission. In the case of Vancouver, the commission is appointed by the Dominion government, and financed, so far as capital expenditure is concerned, by loans advanced by the Dominion Treasury. The revenue derived from tolls and charges on the shipping using the port are expected to pay the harbor commission, and to pay interest on these loans. Tolls and charges are fixed by the harbor commission. The idea of a harbor commission is that the harbor appointed by the Dominion government, and its members being local men, will have local knowledge, and will be better able to handle the business of the port for the development of the trade through that business were administered directly by the marine department of the government. But it is a fortunate possibility that the body may be so completely dominated by local ideas or interests as to lose sight of the public interest in the harbor.

ONCE ON A TIME

By Bertin Briley.
(Commenting on "North of Thirty-Six" Stuart Henry, in the International Book Review, speaks of the "unapproachable" who read such romances.

"Once on a time," wrote Emerson Hough.
"When trails were faint and when ways were rough
And full of perils and pains and fears
The westward-bound pioneers
Said Stuart Henry, 'Ah, that ain't so.
I don't see it, and I don't know
That those brave tales of the west
Are nice and thrilling—but sheer romance.'"

I'm not profane as a rule but—well
The Henry person can go to hell
He probably lives in a city flat
With Persian rugs and a Persian cat
And he thinks as he sits with his quilted wrap on
That what doesn't happen to him can't happen
He is one of those realists who
Who won't believe what they cannot see.

His daily paper brings tales of truth
Of brave old ages and of valiant youth
Of high adventure and splendid fray.
Right in the humdrum of today,
But such as Henry would sniff "Oh, no,
I don't see it, and I don't know
That those brave tales of the west
Are nice and thrilling—but sheer romance."

"Once on a time," wrote Emerson Hough.

Of men and women and children too
Who won an empire all young and new.
